

CARRANZA KILLED BY REVOLUTIONISTS

Mexican President Meets Death In Puebla Mountains—History Of His Stormy Career

(By Associated Press)
Mexico City, May 22.—The authorities have ordered a train to proceed to Beristain, the nearest railway point to the spot in the mountains of Puebla, where President Venustiano Carranza was killed Thursday morning by revolutionary forces. Carranza's chief of staff, General Gonzalez and Montes with Ygnacia Bonillas, former Mexican Ambassador at Washington, are reported safe. No mention is made of others in the party.

General Herrera, it is said, directed the attack which resulted in the death of President Carranza. Herrera belonged to the forces which accompanied Carranza in his flight from this city but who last week deserted Carranza and joined the revolutionists.

No News At Washington

Washington, May 22.—No report of the death of Carranza has been received today from the American embassy in Mexico City. The Associated Press dispatches are the only information before the government here. If Carranza was killed, the manner of his death may inject a new element into the question of recognition of the new Mexican government, and will be the subject of scrutiny in the view. President Wilson's policy was announced seven years ago, when he refused to recognize the Huerta government, after Madero was killed. He said then the United States would recognize no government not based on constitutional authority.

Venustiano Carranza, elected president of Mexico in 1917, by the largest vote ever cast in a presidential election in his country, stepped from political obscurity to national and international prominence on the graves of the hopes of General Victoriano Huerta, the usurper who had seized power in 1913.

Simultaneously with General Huerta's coup d'état and the assassination of President Francisco Madero, Carranza stepped out to the world that General Venustiano Carranza, elected governor of the state of Coahuila in 1911, refused to recognize the usurper and would resist him by force of arms.

"Madero's revolution was political," Carranza is quoted as having said. "mine is a social one."

Born of parents in comfortable circumstances in Cuatro Ciénegas, State of Coahuila, December 23, 1859, Venustiano Carranza was educated in the public schools of his native state and later studied law at the Mexican capital. When he was admitted to the bar, however, affection of the eyes prevented him from practicing and he returned to his native state to become a rancher. His experiences as a rancher first, then as judge, senator and finally governor of Coahuila, gave Carranza a familiarity with the agrarian problem, the root of political unrest in Mexico.

Having defeated Huerta, Carranza rallied a small band of 600 followers which grew into a sizeable army when he won the support of Francisco Villa, Carranza's influence spread rapidly, the military victories of his chief aide, General Alvaro Obregon, became Carranza's leading general.

The Villa generals met at Aguascalientes in November, 1914, and, in alliance with the Zapata faction, formed a conventional government. The capital changed hands several times and was not finally taken by General Obregon until the summer of 1915.

The beginning of the end of the Villa-Zapata party as a military power followed swiftly the heavy defeats of Villa by General Alvaro Obregon. Villa was forced to give up Torreón and concentrate his dwindling forces in Northern Chihuahua and Eastern Sonora, making occasional forays and raids which culminated in the attack on Columbus, N. M., that resulted in the invasion of Mexican territory by Gen. Pershing.

In the diplomatic exchanges that ensued between President Wilson and Carranza, who had been officially recognized as the head of the de facto government by the United States in October, 1915, he insisted on the respect by the United States of Mexico's sovereignty and the concession to his government.

WHITE WAY WORK POSTPONED A LITTLE

Herrington's Plan, Saving Several Thousand Dollars, Meets With Approval

No effort will be made to build the White Way in Richmond until prices of labor and material go down. This was unanimously decided upon at a meeting of a majority of the City Council, the Mayor, members of the special citizens' committee and Vice President Lewis B. Herrington, of the Kentucky Utilities Company, held here Saturday morning. Mr. Herrington was accompanied here by Engineer Bogard, who has made careful estimates of the cost of the proposed improvement.

Under a plan suggested by Mr. Herrington, by which it will not be necessary to lay the feed wires underground, it was estimated that several thousand dollars can be saved the citizens in cost of installing the White Way system. And with the necessity for immediate action on this feature removed, Mr. Herrington's suggestion that the White Way can be built in a year or so for about half what it would cost now, met with ready approval.

IMPORTANT CATCH FINALLY EFFECTED

Bertie Parks Had Whisky And Money, Galore When Taken Into Custody

With a plentiful supply of whisky, a funnel, some bottles and nearly $1,000 in cash to make "change," says Judge G. Murray Smith a young man giving his name as Bertie Parks arrested for violation of the prohibition law by having intoxicating liquor in his possession and offering the same for sale, was "ready then and there, as well as elsewhere," to do business.

The arrest of Parks was made by Patrolman Will Maupin. A fine of $100 and a jail sentence of 50 days was meted out Friday night when Parks was given a hearing. He admitted that he had the whisky for sale according to the arresting officer. Parks had nothing to say, except to call up a former employer said to reside in the eastern part of Madison county. The latter, however, failed to respond to the call for assistance. Parks was sent to jail. Federal officers are credited with having been on the trail of Parks, and U. S. Commissioner Bennett called at police station to investigate the case. It is the intention of the Commissioner to take up the matter at the expiration of the jail term, or perhaps earlier, in order that Uncle Sam can have an accounting with Parks.

LABOR PROTESTS AGAINST LIABILITY

(By Associated Press)
Washington, May 22.—The American Federation of Labor protests against the liability clause of the Senate army reorganization bill on the ground that it might permit conscription of labor in peace times, based on a misconception of the meaning and purpose of the language of the bill.

Chairman Wadsworth informed President Gompers today, in answer to the latter's letter, that nothing of the sort was intended in the term "emergency" employed by the Senate committee, and descriptive of a state of war of first magnitude, constituting national emergency.

No Agreement On Adjournment

(By Associated Press)
Washington, May 22.—No agreement on plans for adjournment or recess of Congress over political conventions was reached today at the conference of the republican leaders. The only decision was to press appropriation bills and the conference reports. Some leaders said if the appropriation bills and other legislation now in conference was completed by June 5th, adjournment sine die might be possible.

FUNERAL OF MRS. ZARING

The remains of Mrs. J. W. Zaring will be tenderly laid away Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by side of those of her devoted husband, in the Shelbyville cemetery, to await the Resurrection morn. Many floral offerings of exquisite loveliness were sent by those who loved and knew her best, as a devoted friend and neighbor. Mr. Carlisle Maupin and Mr. Charles Soper, of Richmond, will be present for the services.

And with the necessity for immediate action on this feature removed, Mr. Herrington's suggestion that the White Way can be built in a year or so for about half what it would cost now, met with ready approval.

It was shown that the principal reason for decisive action at this time was the fear that the new paved streets might have to be torn up or defaced, if a White Way system was not put up simultaneously with the paving. Mr. Herrington suggested the removal of all wooden poles from the main business section of the city, and outlined a plan by which the feed wires for the White Way and other lighting systems can be carried from one ornamental iron post light to another. By this method, instead of the underground conduit system of laying the wires, an immense saving can be effected and at the same time the unsightly wooden poles, of various sizes and leaning at various angles, can be removed from the main business section of the city.

Mr. Herrington manifested a desire to co-operate in every possible way with the people of his old home town in their efforts to beautify and improve the city, and at were greatly pleased at his coming and the decision of the officials and others in the conference with him.

INVESTIGATION OF CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

(By Associated Press)
Washington, May 22.—Frank Hitchcock, former postmaster general, was summoned by the Senate presidential campaign expense investigating committee to appear at the opening inquiry Monday as representative of General Wood, Republican, and Bernard M. Baruch as representative of William G. McAdoo, Democrat.

The "campaign investigation" said the committee had considerable difficulty in ascertaining who would be called to represent Wood. Although 25 representatives of the candidates were summoned, the committee hopes to complete its inquiry before the Republican convention opens. The members are directed to bring all accounts, contributions and expenditures in the campaign from every source and all correspondence connected therewith.

SUMMER SCHOOL ATTRACTS MANY

During the summer school at the Eastern Normal School, there will be here for a week, all of the teachers of the schools of Scott county, including Georgetown. This will be the second year for this delegation to visit the local institution, where special classes will be heard, instead of the regulation county teachers institute. The teachers here last year spread such favorable reports that all demanded another visit, and the work will be taken up and followed through this year here as usual.

Two other counties have also asked for reservations next year, when three counties will doubtless be represented during the summer school season.

Officials of the school believe that this mode of instruction will become more extensive and summer sessions here will be the means of ultimately having all counties in the Eastern district represented. A cafeteria will be provided on the campus for the accommodation of the big list of visitors. Their stay will be for one week. The Scott county delegation will arrive July 5th.

MUSIC FESTIVAL A BIG SUCCESS AGAIN

"The Messiah" Delights Large Audience, With Noted Artists Leading Thursday Evening

An expectant audience assembled last evening to hear the third program of the Festival series at the Eastern Kentucky State Normal under the direction of Dr. S. S. Myers, so ably assisted by the solo artists, orchestra and chorus, with Miss Brown E. Telford, who has already won for herself many laurels as an unusual accompanist, at the piano. "The Messiah" is an oratorio of which one never tires and with each presentation gains in prestige, power and popularity.

Mrs. Brown sustained her nation-wide reputation as an artist approved by the critics, in each separate number, but her audience was held spellbound during the rendition of "Come Unto Him" and "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth."

In the exquisite tenderness of tone of the first aria she touched the heart of the assemblage, and in the second great solo strengthened its distinction of being the greatest song ever written and one of the few number of the oratorio that remains as was the original copy.

Miss Metcalf always impresses her audience with the fine dramatic quality of her voice, and her clear enunciation is an added attraction. Her voice lent itself with great beauty and power to the singing of "He was Despised and Rejected of Men." It is said the composer himself wept at every repetition of this lament.

Mr. Hoffman, in his initial number, found the audience of one opinion as to the pleasing, sympathetic quality of his voice, and showed his musicianship in his intelligent interpretation and clear enunciation in spite of an evident hoarseness from which he was suffering.

Mr. Haberstro came to us as a basso cantanto, a voice which is unusual and seldom heard. He is by critics placed in the class of the foremost concert singers of the day. He made quite an impression upon his audience in his solo work, and his low range was most effective in the quartet.

Dr. Myers is again to be congratulated upon his capable chorus which contributed so largely to the success of the occasion and the splendid orchestra which did such noble work from the opening note to the grand finale. The large audience, too, must not be overlooked for its enthusiasm and intelligent appreciation is said always to find a happy and grateful response in the assembly behind the footlights.

"Poor Relations" Are In This City Tonight

Florence Vidor and ZaSu Pitts are seen in excellent characterizations in "Poor Relations," the Brentwood production released by Robertson-Cole, at the local theatres today.

Miss Vidor, who played the lead in "The Other Half," a recent Brentwood picture, and Miss Pitts, who scored heavily as "The Jazz Kid" in the same production, have sharply contrasted roles in "Poor Relations" that give them splendid opportunities for their strongly individualized talents.

Dorothy Perkins (Miss Vidor) and Daisy Perkins (Miss Pitts), were opposite in everything but their name and origin. Dorothy was ambitious and artistic, and longed for the environment and refinements which wealth could bring. Daisy was full of mischief, buoyant and inclined to be "jazzy."

HERT WANTS TO PUT ANOTHER "OVER"

Wants Indiana Man In Joe Boggs' Place—Trying To Put Roads Into Politics

A dispatch from Frankfort the other day had some interesting matters concerning the efforts of certain republican politicians to make a political machine out of the State Road Department by the displacement of Joe S. Boggs as State Highway Commissioner. It is said to be the plan of A. T. Hert, the former Indiana millionaire and republican boss of the state, to have a man named Morrill, whom Hert has brought from Indiana, named to succeed Boggs. But the dispatch from Frankfort tells the story pretty accurately.

Frankfort, Ky.—The State Highway Commission of four, the State Highway Engineer, the State Banking Commissioner and the executive agents of the Game and Fish Commission, are due to be appointed before July 1st.

Dr. R. S. Tuttle, Bardonia, is slated for executive agent of the Game and Fish Commission, and terms of Chairman Joseph G. Sachs, Louisville, and Commissioner J. E. Crider, Jr., Fredonia, have expired.

James P. Lewis, former secretary of state, is tipped for Banking Commissioner. One member of the present force, J. Stone Walker of Richmond, is said to be slated for reappointment as Bank Examiner. Besides the reorganization of the department the new commissioner will be confronted with inaugurating the blue sky law which becomes effective about June 15th. Under this he will have supervision of all sales of stock in Kentucky.

The road situation is keeping the politicians puzzled over recent developments. It now looks as if W. M. Morrill will be highway commissioner, with a commission composed of E. W. S. Moynahan, St. Matthews; Ben Weille, Paducah former Railroad Commissioner; Green Garrett, Winchester, and Hugh Ashe, Harlan.

It was understood that Peter Lee Atherton, of Louisville, one of the original good roads boosters, had been accepted a place on the commission, consulted by Gov. Morrow about. After the Governor's trip East this spring, however, Mr. Morrill a native of Indiana, moved to Louisville and it transpired that Chesley Searey and Matt Chilton were opposed to Mr. Atherton's appointment.

In the meantime Attorney General Charles I. Dawson, Speaker Joe Bosworth, and former Mayor E. S. Helburn, of Middlesboro, following the action of the House of Representatives in indorsing the administration of Road Commissioner Joe S. Boggs, have urged the governor to discard politics in connection with the road department and retain Commissioner Boggs as State Highway Engineer. They argued that not only would it be disastrous to get the department into politics, but a new engineer, no matter how efficient, with a new commission would throw the road work back a year while he was acquainting himself with the situation and getting his force reorganized. This conclusion was reached by the Attorney General after discovering that the road situation is greatly complicated by the new law, and the commissioner has taken to him a number of perplexing problems.

The state is changing from the inter-county seat to the state highway system. The state is obligated to the counties for several millions of state aid projects, for which counties advanced money out of bond issues and special taxes. Some of these roads overlap prospective state highway projects. Overlapping both of them are federal aid projects some completed some under contract, some under construction and some being held in abeyance until the new law is put into operation in hope of full reimbursement by the state.

No politics has ever been played in appointment of engineers in the department. There never has been enough engineers available to man the department taking all that can be hired, regardless of party affiliation.

The suggestion that he be retained came without the knowledge of Commissioner Boggs, who sent in his resignation to Governor Morrow last December, and has been urging the Governor to name his commission and engineer, so they could be acquainting themselves with the work and relieve him as soon as possible.

That he could be persuaded to stay if politics is kept out of the department is the opinion of the Attorney General and the others. It is believed the situation now has narrowed down to selection of Mr. Morrill or Mr. Boggs. What exper-

TEACHERS DEPART-- EXAMINATION OVER

Thirty-Eight Counties Represented At E. K. S. N. Meeting Friday And Saturday

"I have witnessed many examinations, but I don't recall a one that has been conducted along more successful and effective lines than this one, and I must confess that I am sincere in complimenting both Mr. Edwards your County Superintendent, and the members of the board."—Louis Clark, State Clerk, State 1910.—Edmund State Inspector of Rural Schools.

Young women and young men, representing the 38 counties in Kentucky, emerged from the examination rooms at the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School Saturday shortly before noon, having filled in the questions representing the examination for the teacher's licenses. Some were a stern and earnest expression, denoting their minds were still upon the matters of the day which are to figure so prominently in their future; others wore that happy relieved, "It's all over, thank goodness," smile and more than 100 students and teachers passed from the building where they have been putting their brains to a test in furnishing the best possible grade for the examining and grading board at Frankfort. Many will be finished school officials believe within a week or ten days when the reports will be returned to County Superintendent Edwards, of Madison county.

The list of petitioners was even a surprise to the examining board, since many did not report until a late hour in fact, some of them barely arrived in time to take up the first of the work. There was a noticeable increase in the young element, showing that the crop of new teachers this year will doubtless be greater than that of last. Besides those from Madison county, there were about 100 from 38 counties.

The list from the Normal school, together with their home county is as follows:

Born Crawford, Vanceburg; Grace Howard, Butler's Creek; Lorne Sullivan, Vanceburg; Ruth Rankin, Lexington; Daisy Egan, Vanceburg; Effie Anderson, Canfield; Lucella Croyle, Canfield; Bertha Tudor, Winchester; Eva Bowler, Lancaster; Irene Clem, Lexington; Ben Flinders, Vanceburg; Ethel Wainwright, Turner Station; Edna Brantley, Cornish; Dewey Fields, Grandview; Clah Fields, Gladys; Christine McCoy, Frankfort; Daisy Gabbard, Chester; and Virginia E. Kirk, Richmond.

Following is a list of Madison county teachers who took the examination and will doubtless be in the ranks in the future:

The following is the list of students from E. K. S. taking the examination:

Marguerite Fields and Daisy Funnell, Lewis county; Virginia Ware, Putnam county; Mary Mackey, Pike county; Stacy Stanford, Paducah county; Beulah Scott and Myrtle Dodson, Wayne county; Sadie Hurley and Edna Mitchell, Pike county; Christine McCoy, Franklin county; Daisy Young, Letcher county; Beatrice Brandenburg, Boone county; Emma Adams, Bath county; Leta Roberts, Middlesboro; Stella J. Keagy, Whitley county; Edna Higgins, Lee county; Victoria Helphelston, Fleming county; Pearl Rowland and Mary Brandenburg, Boone county; Elizabeth Hamilton, Boone county; Athena Breesse, Bracken county; Floyd Hedges, Grant county; Blodja Prather, Owen county; Lucille M. Lano, Harlan county; Bessie Lane, Harlan county; Haley Applegate, Lewis county; Lewis county; Fattie Vellard, Madison county; Mildred Ragsdale, Clark county; Lena Girard, Madison county; Virginia Wilbrow, Bath county; Rankin and Irene Clem, Fayette county; Ora Mae Turpin, Madison county; Bettie Scott, Carroll county; Nancy Gray, Bath county; Bertha Taber, Clark county; Minnie Pearl Meyer, Lewis county; Ethel Wainwright, Boone county; Doris Crawford, Lewis county; Nancy Correll, Mason county; Lovell Kinney, Lewis county; Irene Terrill, Nicholas county; Mildred Flinders and Irene Flinders, Lewis county; Grace Howard, Harlan county; Elizabeth Satterly and Guyan Wadsworth, Nicholas county; Elsie Anderson, Nicholas county; Maud Blair, Grant county; Frank Rice, Magalloway county; Dewey Gabbard, Gray county; Helen Morris, Lincoln county; Thelma Dorman, Gallatin county; Oziah Patrick, Bath county; Ethel Evans, Bell county; Hattie A. Combs, Breathitt county; Lora M. Green, Franklin county; Anna C. West, Jessamine county; Grant Coleman, Pike county; Leta B. Watson and Ida Verne, Lewis county; Dabney, Wayne county; Ethel Blackaby, Bourbon county; Samuel Craft and O. C. Howard, Gray county; Dewey Fields, Letcher county; Louisa Grove, Nicholas county; Ruth Masters, Madison county.
